Brave New World
by Aldous Huxley
Set in a future in which everything is “perfect,” one man feels like something is missing.

The Carbon Diaries 2015
by Saci Lloyd
In 2015, England becomes the first country in the world to ration carbon-dioxide output. Lauren, a student, documents her day-to-day life as both her environment and her family spin out of control.

The Declaration
by Gemma Malley
A drug has been invented granting immortality, leading to a population boom and making children illegal. “Surplus” children are expected to earn their keep as servants and Anna is the picture of obedience, until she meets a boy named Peter who challenges everything she has learned.

Divergent
by Veronica Roth
16-yr-olds must choose to join one of five factions dedicated to a particular virtue, and must devote themselves for life. Beatrice must make a choice, but is it right?

Feed
by M.T. Anderson
73% of Americans have given up their right to free will by having Feed chips installed in their brain, in exchange for instant information, entertainment, and communication. But what happens when even the human mind becomes an advertising target?

How I Live Now
by Meg Rosoff
15-year-old Daisy goes to stay with her aunt and cousins in England to get away from her pregnant stepmother, but her peace is soon disturbed when war breaks out and rips apart the family.

The Knife of Never Letting Go by Patrick Ness
Young Todd and Viola set out across New World searching for answers about the colony's true past and seek to warn a ship bringing hopeful settlers before it is too late.

Life as We Knew It
by Susan Beth Pfeffer
After an asteroid hits the moon, tidal waves, volcanoes, and weather patterns are thrown off on earth, leading to chaos and families struggling for survival.

Little Brother
by Cory Doctorow
After being interrogated for days by the Department of Homeland Security in the aftermath of a major terrorist attack, 17-year-old Marcus, released into what is now a police state, decides to use his expertise in computer hacking to set things right.
The Maze Runner
by James Dashner
Waking up in the middle of a maze with no memory, 16-year-old Thomas realizes that he must work with the community in which he finds himself if he wishes to escape.

Uglies
by Scott Westerfeld
Set in a society where all 16-year-olds have an operation to be transformed into beauties whose only job is to party, Tally’s best friend runs away. Now, she must chase her down, or risk losing the chance to join the pretty forever.

The Water Wars
by Cameron Stracher
Global warming has dried up the earth, leaving people thirsty and water controlled by the government. Wasting water is a crime, but Kai doesn’t seem to care about any of this. What does he know? And what is the government hiding?

Winter’s End
by Jean-Claude Mourlevat
Four teenagers flee across icy mountains while escaping from a prison-like boarding school to exact revenge on the government that murdered their parents fifteen years ago.

Wither
by Lauren DeStefano
After an incurable virus has affected the human race, ensuring death by age 20 in all females and 25 in males, the prettiest girls are kidnapped and sold into marriages in an attempt to breed a healthy generation.

World War Z: An Oral History of the Zombie War
by Max Brooks
A collection of individual accounts which tell the story of an apocalyptic Zombie War.

Z for Zachariah
By Robert C. O’Brien
Elated to see that she is not the only person left after a nuclear war, a young girl is relieved to see a man arrive in her valley. She soon discovers that he might be more toxic than the radiation that she must somehow escape.